

Wild Interiors
Katka Adams
The Boyd Gallery

Friday 19 April – Sunday 2 June

“Wild Interiors is an exhibition of works on paper that merge two Australian ideals: our love of nature and landscape, and our dream of a beautiful home and lifestyle. This is a challenging dilemma as ever-increasing development threatens more and more wildlife habitat.

As we destroy our natural environment, we lavishly decorate our homes often using colours, motifs and patterns inspired by nature. Even our pets have been genetically manipulated to enhance characteristics that we consider to be aesthetically pleasing.

The title for each pastel drawing has been chosen from hundreds of names of interior paint colours meticulously mixed and used to decorate homes. Most of these evocative names refer to nature in some way.”
